

Morality - Postliterate - Medium

By Postliterate

Source: <https://medium.com/@postliterate/morality-84d53dfd091d>

(A semi-tribute to Renzo Novatore)

Morality is the heavenly pedestal which the most wicked men climb onto in order to forget the pain of being a corporeal man;

Morality is the drug which deludes good men into causing unbelievable suffering in the world;

Morality is the shield behind which hides the most egregious hypocrites, liars, and cheats — deflecting even the criticism which speaks within them;

Morality is the gun by which evil dictators force their will upon the populace and subordinate them.

How deceitfully evil is the christian; how brutally honest is the thief!

How deluded and monstrous is the party leader; how true to himself is the common man!

How perverted is the man who speaks of chastity, holiness, and cleanliness; how righteous is the man who cares not!